This Portland, Oregon-based supplier provides an innovative prying tool for both contractors -and- do-it-yourself consumers. Necessity inspired the invention of its pry bar system, at a job site. Ineffective, prying tools available at this jobsite lead to the idea for the Artillery® Pry Bar System. During its development, in an effort to achieve every feasible prying task the tool could conceivably encounter in the field, the company wisely consulted with numerous contractors. This was useful, as this tool was created during its developmental and testing phases. Those who use this tool confirm it does what it was intended to do: remove whatever it is that needs removing. This is a patented tool; expertly engineered to be flexible, lightweight, efficient and ergonomic. It is constructed with the finest materials. The multiple testimonials, at the Artillery website, describe this invention, as a powerful, versatile tool, which alleviates stress and reduces prying time. Flooring contractors eager for an easier way to remove wood flooring should see what this tool can do for them.
