The Andalusia Star News recently published an article about the floor man, Anthony Mason who received a standing ovation for 25 years of work on flooring and environmental services, Thursday evening, October 27, 2016.

Mr. Mason is a 25-year veteran of the local hospital, who started work on flooring projects more than two decades ago. However, he never intended to make a career of it. He describes the job as a blessing. He finds the people very friendly. He has no plans to retire from this rewarding job anytime soon. Why would he? This is a fulfilling job likely to provide welcome recognition while offering an ideal working environment to further develop his skills.

Mr. Mason does not limit his involvement with flooring projects to the hospital. The satisfied customers who are pleased with the quality of his work are not unlikely to refer him to friends and family. Looking back, there is a sense of accomplishment in the work that he does, which is unlikely to go unnoticed at the hospital and elsewhere.

There were several hospital employees recognized for their years of service. Among them, Mr. Mason was the only one recognized for 25 years of service and the one cheerfully greeted with the kind of memorable standing ovation that confirms he truly is a blessed man.
