Forbo Flooring launches new carpet tiles for marine industry

UK flooring specialist Forbo Flooring has recently launched a new range of carpet tiles made just for the marine industry.

Certified by the International Maritime Organization (IMO), Westbond FR is offered in a 50cm x 50cm tile format so it can be easily installed onboard oceangoing vessels. Featuring a thick pile, Westbond FR is suitable for use on many areas onboard ships, including cabins, lounge and recreation areas, staff quarters, offices and shops.

Westbond FR is available in 144 colors, but Forbo Flooring can also match yarns to Pantone references to create a unique color that complements the interior design scheme. These particular carpet tiles are additionally available in Forbo Flooring's Flex design, which allows Forbo Flooring customers to mix shades from the Westbond Color collection, or from their custom color, in order to create a Westbond Flex carpet tile that matches perfectly to their vessel's interiors.

Customers are not the only ones enthusiastic about Westbond. Jacco Vlaar, head of Forbo's International Key Accounts, Transportation confirmed this: "We're excited that we can now offer our customers IMO-certified Westbond carpet tiles," adding that "Westbond has already had an outstanding reputation for quality for decades so it's a great next step in Forbo's goal to expand its IMO product offering. Designers are always looking for custom designs and Westbond FR offers them a very wide color basis to work with." Curious readers are invited to learn more about Forbo Flooring's full IMO certified range of floor coverings.
