A paw print perfect for pet owners

Atrafloor added a rather cheerful design to its collection: paw print floors. Some are saying the surface is a brilliant one. Residential applications are obvious. Few if any families that include members of the four-legged variety wouldn't love it. Commercial applications are less obvious. What pet grooming business wouldn't benefit from such a pet friendly surface?

The design could be a welcoming addition for pets. Imagine it in a laundry room, a creative design choice. Homeowners understandably reluctant to cover the surface of a room with this pattern may be more receptive to installing it in an area within a room. Everyone wishes they had their own room including the pets. If that's not practical, here's a suggestion:

Install it where family pets are likely to frequent: near doors, especially those doors, which include pet flaps. This surface can make your life easier in imaginative ways by serving as a designated area for bowls, litter and leashes. Your pet loves you. One way to return that love is with an Atrafloor.

Remember, this is not just another pretty surface. It's made from highly-durable materials, which offer added protection; against daily wear and tear of foot traffic and paw traffic. Ask about customized designs available in the color of choice. Learn more by visiting the Atrafloor website.
