Seven million for a two bedroom apartment

The top floor of the tallest apartment building in the world is likely to change your perspective of city life, though at a price that few of us could afford. The apartment building's 179 apartments will be starting at $7 million for a two-bedroom unit and climb as high as nine-figures for the top penthouse in Central Park, NYC.

While Central Park Tower reached its full height Tuesday September 17, 2019 and most of the exterior has been built, the tower interiors will take time to complete. The completion time frame is projected as early as the end of the year 2020. Nevertheless, units are for sale to those who can afford them (or at least renderings of them) and have been since 2018.
