No. It has nothing to do with footwear or sports. It is something else, entirely. A French cleat is actually a molding with a slope angled at 30 to 45 degrees. It is a weight bearing molding effective for mounting a heavy object to a wall.

It can be used in pairs or mounted with a matching edge cut into the object. Most carpenters consider it to be a strong and adaptable mounting system. When should it be used and does it really work? Ask The Honest Carpenter.
